The Cabin

Lois, July 1939

Foster bought a piece of land in Drums, Pa., not far from Hazelton. There he built a modest cabin. It actually started out as a tool shed and grew room by room. This was the scene of a lot of summer activities for many years. In fact both Foster, Jr. and Joyce married into the Balliet family, whose farm was nearby. Foster's sister Gertrude (Aunt Gertie) and her husband Harry Kishbaugh had a cabin on an adjoining lot. The neighboring cabins were owned by the Kreigers and the Kemps. The Roberts family had a permanent home nearby. Fosters brother Day also lived in the same valley.

Back of picture says this is Bobby Roth, Harrison Kishbach, Donald Waldron, and Foster Roth, Jr. Who's who, and who's the fifth guy?

Lois,

One of the attractions at the Cabin was swimming in the nearby Nescopeck creek. (That's pronounced "crick.")
